

Joumana Haddad

What are the challenges that an Arab woman writer faces today?

This paper presents the challenges that a woman writer faces today in the Arab world. The author aims to discuss such questions as: Did today's women manage to break some of the barriers imposed on her language and expression by tradition and religious conservatism? Is she able to write and discuss whatever she wants to write and discuss without self censorship and shaming?